LAKE HARRIET YACHT CLUB MEMORIES

I was searching for a topic for this page that would summarize this year's events, be topical, interesting, and allow me to express my thoughts as Commodore. I was even tempted to review previous LHYC Year Books to get insights as to what others had written over the years. An old friend and former club member's phone call gave me the insight for this message. His calling me forced me to think about what I wanted to write for this column. Lord knows MC-Sea J would not help me as we had a falling out recently.

He asked about the sailing season, about mutual LHYC friends, and the events going on in their lives. "How was the competition, did I and my boat perform well, who was dating whom", this sort of thing. It seemed that he needed this information as some sort of mental fix, and to keep tabs on what was happening with his old club.

Reviewing this year's events is personal and means many things to each of us. These thoughts will last for years. We will think back about a particular race, and what if I had done this or that to improve my place. I would have beaten so and so if I had done this. Wasn't that 4th of July party fun. Working on that committee took a lot of time, was a real pain, but I met him/her and we had a great time doing whatever.

Yes, my phone conversation made this article easy to write. He confirmed that what I have thought for many years. It is the mix of people with varied interests drawn together by competitive racing that makes Lake Harriet Yacht Club special. What develops are unique friendships because of this common interest. Participating in club activities, joining committees and contributing time and talent makes this club prosper. It certainly strengthens our friendships.

Other yacht clubs envy LHYC for all the right reasons. It's because of each of us who contribute time, talent, and love keep the club's momentum growing year after year.

What struck me most about what my friend said before closing was that "there are no better friends than LHYC friends, and that he missed them". This is so true. These friendships are totally unique, to be cherished, and unlike many others. Nurture these friendships.

It's been fun and an honor to be your Commodore.
